Portfolio Manager Commentary

The technology sector delivered strong performance in the first half of 2025, overcoming an early drawdown to close the period near record highs. Gains were underpinned by stabilizing macroeconomic conditions, easing geopolitical tensions, and enduring investor enthusiasm for Artificial Intelligence (AI) and digital infrastructure.

Markets entered the year with optimism following President Trump's inauguration, but sentiment quickly soured amid escalating trade and geopolitical tensions. In April, the announcement of sweeping tariffs by the administration sparked a sharp market pullback. However, investor confidence rebounded later that month after the White House paused further tariff actions, reigniting risk appetite¹.

AI continued to serve as a key growth catalyst across the sector. Semiconductor giants like NVIDIA and Broadcom saw strong demand for accelerated computing, while cloud and software companies deepened their AI integration strategies². Enterprise investment in AI infrastructure remained robust.

Meta Platforms expanded its AI capabilities across its ecosystem, focusing on personalized content delivery and ad efficiency³. Microsoft sustained its leadership in enterprise AI through Azure and Copilot integrations, cementing its role as a cornerstone of the AI landscape⁴.

By the end of June, market breadth began to improve. While mega-cap technology stocks remained dominant, increasing participation from small- and mid-capitalization technology stocks hinted at a broadening of the rally⁵.

Performance Attribution

For the six month period ending June 30, 2025, Broadcom Inc. made the biggest contribution to the Fund, followed by NVIDIA Corporation. By weight, the Fund's largest holdings were Meta Platforms, Inc., NVIDIA Corporation, and Broadcom Inc.

Recent Developments

In 2025, trade tensions have escalated as the United States considers imposing new tariffs on key trading partners, including Canada and Mexico, along with broader reciprocal measures on other nations. In response, affected countries may enact retaliatory tariffs, further increasing uncertainty in global trade. These developments have contributed to heightened market volatility and could disrupt global supply chains, particularly impacting trade-sensitive sectors. The duration and full impact of these events remain uncertain, and as such, the financial implications for investments cannot be estimated at this time.

5 This information is provided as at June 30, 2025 and December 31, 2024 and 2023.

6 Management expense ratio ("MER") is based on total expenses plus harmonized sales tax (excluding distributions, commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

7 The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of average daily net assets during the period.

8 The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio manager trades its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund.

Past Performance

The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, income taxes payable by any unitholder or other optional charges that, if applicable, would have reduced returns or performance. The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the investment fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional securities of the investment fund. How the Fund has performed in the past does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.
