Investment Objective and Strategies

The Evolve Canadian Banks and Lifecos Enhanced Yield Index Fund (the "Fund") seeks to replicate, to the extent reasonably possible and before fees and expenses, up to a 1.25 times multiple of the performance of the Solactive Canadian Core Financials Equal Weight Index (the "Index"), or any successor thereto, while mitigating downside risk. The Fund invests primarily in the equity constituents of the Index, while writing covered call options on up to 33% of the portfolio securities in the portfolio, at the discretion of the Manager. The level of covered call option writing may vary based on market volatility and other factors. The Fund will use leverage in order to seek to achieve its investment objective. Leverage will be created through the use of cash borrowings or as otherwise permitted under applicable securities legislation.

Risk

There were no changes to the Fund over the period of this report that materially affected the level of risk associated with an investment in the Fund. Prospective investors should read the Fund's most recent prospectus and consider the description of risks contained therein.

Results of Operations

For the year ended December 31, 2025, the Unhedged ETF Units returned 41.1% the Index return of 38.5%. The Unhedged Class A Mutual Fund Units returned 39.4% and the Unhedged Class F Mutual Fund Units returned 41.0% versus the Index return of 38.5%. For a discussion of the relative performance of the Fund as compared to the Index, please refer to the "Annual Compound Return" section in the "Management Discussion of Fund Performance". The Fund's net assets were $848.5MM as at December 31, 2025.

Leverage

The table below shows the minimum and maximum leverage levels of the Fund for the years ended December 31, 2025 and 2024, as well as the leverage at the end of the reporting periods and as a percentage of the Fund's net assets.

The Fund is classified as an "alternative mutual fund" as defined in National Instrument 81-102, Investment Funds ("NI 81-102"). As an alternative mutual fund, the Fund is permitted to lever its assets per the restrictions outlined in NI 81-102. The Fund currently anticipates achieving its investment objectives and creating leverage through the use of cash borrowing. The maximum aggregate exposure of the funds to cash borrowing will not exceed approximately 25% of NAV. In order to ensure that unitholders' risk is limited to the capital invested, the funds' leverage will be rebalanced back to 25% of the funds' NAV within two business days of the funds' leverage exceeding 2% above its target leverage ratio of 25% of NAV.

Portfolio Manager Commentary

Canada's largest banks and life insurance companies delivered a standout performance in 2025, underpinned by resilient earnings and strong capital markets activity. Fourth-quarter results wrapped up with TD, BMO, and CIBC all reporting profits that exceeded expectations, extending a string of earnings beats across the sector.

Combined fourth quarter bank profits reached $16.45 billion, up from $14.73 billion a year earlier, as banks and the broader economy largely shrugged off ongoing trade uncertainty with the United States. While results showed pockets of stress, including a Canadian unemployment rate hovering near 7%, higher provisions for personal banking credit losses, and subdued mortgage growth, these headwinds proved manageable.¹

Strength in capital markets and wealth management more than offset pressures in consumer-facing segments. Elevated, albeit volatile, markets supported deal activity, trading revenues, and fee income. Capital markets performance was particularly strong, with CIBC posting a 58% year-over-year increase in profits, RBC reporting a 62% gain, and National Bank delivering a 41% jump. Wealth management also benefited as rising asset values lifted fee revenue across the industry.¹

December 31, 2025

These trends capped a robust year for Canadian banks. Collectively, the sector earned $69.86 billion in 2025, a sharp increase from $51.27 billion the prior year, highlighting the durability of bank earnings despite economic and policy headwinds.¹

Looking ahead, bank management teams are increasingly constructive on the growth outlook into next year. However, the transmission to households may take time, particularly as another wave of mortgage renewals approaches at higher interest rates, which could continue to weigh on consumer balance sheets in the near term.

Performance Attribution

For the twelve month period ending December 31, 2025, Power Corporation of Canada made the biggest contribution to the Fund, followed by The Toronto-Dominion Bank. By weight, the Fund's largest holdings were Royal Bank of Canada, The Toronto-Dominion Bank, and Great-West Lifeco Inc.

Recent Developments

In 2026, financial markets are operating in an environment increasingly shaped by heightened geopolitical conflict, most notably the developing war in the middle east. The escalation has triggered sharp moves across global markets, including spikes in oil and gas prices, increased demand for safe haven assets, and renewed volatility in equities, bonds, and foreign currencies. While underlying economic activity remains resilient in several regions, higher energy prices and elevated geopolitical uncertainty have added new risks to inflation trajectories and policy expectations. Governments are reassessing defense spending and trade arrangements, while central banks face a more complex balance between managing inflation pressures and supporting growth. Market volatility has intensified across asset classes, particularly in sectors sensitive to energy costs, geopolitical risk, and global supply chains. The duration and broader economic impact of the conflict remain uncertain, and the potential financial implications for investments continue to evolve as conditions develop.

4 This information is provided as at December 31, 2025, 2024, 2023 and 2022.

5 Management expense ratio ("MER") is based on total expenses plus harmonized sales tax (excluding distributions, commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

6 The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of average daily net assets during the period. The trading expense ratio includes the cost of financing.

7 The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio manager trades its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund.

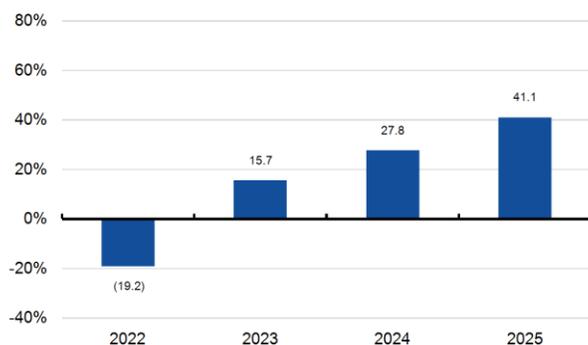

Past Performance

The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, income taxes payable by any unitholder or other optional charges that, if applicable, would have reduced returns or performance. The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the investment fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional securities of the investment fund. How the Fund has performed in the past does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.

Annual Compound Return

The table below shows the historical annual compound total return of the Unhedged ETF Units and the Unhedged Class A and F Mutual Fund Units. The returns are for the period ended December 31, 2025. The difference in performance of the Unhedged ETF Units and the Unhedged Class A and F Mutual Fund Units relative to the Index can be attributed primarily to management and administration fees plus applicable sales taxes, portfolio trading, and due to the fact that the Fund is permitted to lever its assets through the use of cash borrowing, which can magnify the performance of the Fund up to 1.25 times the performance of the Index. Furthermore, the difference in performance of the Unhedged ETF Units and the Unhedged Class A and F Mutual Fund Units relative to the Index can also be attributed to the implementation of the call writing strategy where the Fund tends to outperform in flat or down markets and underperform during sharp market advances. This performance difference can be seen over the period the calls are written, typically with one to two months to expiry, and then resets when new option positions are established.
